

Like many of the various projects which are undertaken on properties in France, this particular one was simply to provide extra space. Nice and straight forward you would think. It should have been except that the water supply was at the extreme end of the existing property as was the power. In addition, we had many long hours of discussions with the owners regarding the routing of the waste into the fosse septic. But, hey, this is part and parcel of this kind of work and what makes it all the more special when you reach the end of the journey.

Our clients wanted a simple bedroom with a shower room separate from it. They got just that along with all of the wonderful quirky twists and turns of the old beams and all the characteristic nuances that these lovely old properties have.

With ample insulation in the roof area and in the internal and external walls they now have a very comfortable and snug bedroom and ample shower room. They even have new windows in openings that had never ever had real windows in place before and that adds something special like their own mark on the property. Its nice to know that we were part of this old property's development, history and future.
