

This project is Work In Progress at the moment. Neither development or renovation, it is the result of our harsh winters and copper water pipes. Unfortunately for our long standing client her pipes, which were supposed to be protected from the frost by an electrical system, failed after a power cut. We have no real idea how long this went unchecked but the damage is clear to be seen from the photographs.

Clearly, this project is simply a recovery task and our aim is to have it like new for her next trip over.
