

We started this project in mid 2007 with the aim of having it ready for our clients to celebrate their first Christmas holidays in their new holiday home. Happily I can report that we met the target. Our clients arrived into their warm house with its lovely new kitchen, drainage system, wiring and heating all working and looking first rate.

The really great thing about this project was that it took the old and blended it perfectly with the new. French house are not known for large, bright and airy kitchens but this property looks terrific for it and our clients are delighted with the end product. So are we, of course.

In addition, we have also installed secondary drainage lines in preparation for their new fosse septic, built a utility room and a coat room. This year, we have totally replaced the roof to the smaller house section (as shown in the photographs to the right). This has not only rendered the roof waterproof but has given it a much needed facelift and has, in fact, transformed the look of the property.

Working with our sub-contracted team, we have been able to complete all the works that were required, and deliver a first rate finished product for our clients. What a difference a year makes!!

Happily, our clients have more projects in mind for us to work on over the coming months and years so we must be doing things well to be invited back again.
